Staffordshire Building Excellence Award for A & S Enterprises Limited

Local construction company, A & S Enterprises Limited have won the Staffordshire Building Excellence Award for the construction of the new Indoor Tennis Centre at Stafford Sports College. The new £900,000 building beat of other nominations in the category for best “Public Building under £1m”.

The independent judging panel were impressed with the different construction methods used on site such as piled foundations, dewatering systems and an unusual make up of the floor construction. The site had a rising brook running through it which presented issues for A&S Enterprises to overcome. Despite early setbacks with the weather A&S Enterprises completed on time and within budget producing a high quality result.

The centre which was funded by the LTA was officially opened by Greg Rusedski and LTA Chief Executive, Roger Draper in October 2010. Commenting on the latest awards, Andy Sulin, Director said “ We are delighted to have won this LABC award for the Baseline Centre. This now goes forward to be judged regionally and if successful will go forward to the national awards”.
